

WRECK
In Which Three People of
'Newark Were Hurt
Cars on Fast B. & O. No. 8 Ditched
By Striking Washout.

Mrs. Anderson Williams Was on the Wrecked Train
--Newark Crew in Charge-Injured People
Were Removed to Mansfield Hospital.

A complete list of those injured in the B. & O. wreck at Mansfield was received at the B. & O. offices Tuesday afternoon. In the earlier reports it was announced that F. C. Miller of Newark, had an arm broken but Mr. Miller escaped with a bruised shoulder. The official list of injured follows:

Mrs. T. S. Stralley, Ft. Wayne, Ind., arm bruised and sprained.
Mrs. Valentine, Denver, Colo., back bruised.
F. C. Miller, Newark, shoulder bruised; no bone broken.
Mrs. Minnie Perry, South Chicago, slightly injured on left side.
Mrs. Mary Sweeney, Wheeling, left eye bruised.

Mansfield, O., April 14—The B. O. east-bound limited express train No. 3, due here at 6:06 p. m., was wrecked last evening about 6 o'clock, near Dillon's Crossing, as the result of a culvert giving way. Though a number of people were injured, it is believed that none of them is fatally hurt. The water covered the tracks at this point, the rain having fallen in torrents all afternoon. The train was not traveling at its usual speed.

The engine, baggage car and mail car came across safely. The smoker, day coach and Pullman car were thrown on their side. The dining car left the rails but was not upset.

In the day coach were about twenty passengers. When the crash came some found themselves in the water, others clinging to seats, but all managed to crawl out of the debris. The contents of the dining car were smashed.

An engine and caboose were procured by the trainmen, and as many physicians as could be engaged in the city were taken to the scene. Most of the people sustained only minor injuries, and did not require much attention. It required several trips to bring the passengers to the city, where some went to the hotels and several to the emergency hospital. These were Mrs. H. S. Stanley and child, of 317 Baker street, Ft. Wayne; Mrs. Mary Stanley, on the way from Denver to her home in Baltimore, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Mary Valentine, and Mr. Frank C. Miller, formerly of Newark, on his way from Emporia, Kan., to Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Stanley was ill in her berth when the crash came. She and her mother were thrown out, but not badly hurt. Mrs. Stanley sustained a sprained ankle, bruises about the head and face and minor injuries. Miller's head was cut by falling through a window, and his left arm was broken. J.

NEGRO
Who Murdered an Officer
Was Hanged This Morning.

Media, Pa., April 14—Albert West, the colored murderer of Mark Allen, a Chester, Pa. policeman, was hanged here this morning at 10:13. This was the second execution in the history of Delaware county and the first in 62 years. The murder of Allen was the result of a quarrel between West and a woman whom he called his wife. West was beating her and Allen, hearing her cries went to the rescue. When Allen interfered West shot him dead.

Bremen, April 14—The new North German Lloyd liner, Kaiser Wilhelm II, the largest liner afloat, started on her maiden voyage for New York at noon today. An immense crowd gathered at her dock and cheered as she sailed away. She is 706 feet long, cost over three million dollars and will run over 25 miles an hour.

BOYS VOTED

At the Election in Urbana, But Social Ties Will Probably Save Them From Prosecution.

Urbana, O., April 14—It develops that a number of minors voted at the recent municipal election in this city. The boys who voted belong to prominent families, and their parents were not aware that they had voted until after the election. The boys were ushered to the polls, it is said, by ward politicians. They did not realize how serious the offense was, and since the election some of them have admitted in public that they had voted. On account of prominent family relations the boys may not be compelled to suffer for their serious offense.

When a demand was made for an inspection of the poll books and tally sheets, City Clerk Berry refused to allow an inspection to be made, and said that he would keep the documents under lock and key. The fact that minors voted here has caused a sensation.

BURDICK

Got Only What He Deserved, Says the Former Husband of Mrs. Helen Warren.

Chicago, April 14—"Burdick was murdered and got what he deserved." J. Burton Warren, of Cleveland, made this comment on the Buffalo mystery at the Auditorium Annex.

Mr. Warren is the divorced husband of Mrs. Helen Cleveland Warren, with whom it was said Burdick was in love. Mr. Warren is the representative of a publishing house. He is of medium height, athletic in build, and about 23 years old.

"The first time I ever met Burdick," said Mr. Warren, "was at the Elmwood Club. I went to the Elmwood with Mrs. Warren, and was the first time I had accepted an invitation from Burdick to go anywhere with him. I told my wife my impression of him. 'That is what started the trouble. I told her I did not want her to associate with Burdick, and I told her mother the same thing. The first thing I knew of the tragedy was in St. Louis. I had just arrived from St. Paul, and sitting at my dinner I noticed in the paper a dispatch from Buffalo telling of the murder. I was shocked, knowing as much of the man as I did, and hardly two weeks had passed since my wife's divorce had been granted. You know afterward they found a clipping announcing the divorce in Burdick's pocket.

"What do I think of the crime?" "Burdick was murdered and he got just what he deserved. He should have got it before. I don't think Pennell killed him. I have my own notions as to whether Pennell had anything to do with the murder or not, but I have not told a living man what my notions are."

"Did not Pennell commit suicide?" was asked.

"No, I don't believe that Pennell committed suicide. Knowing the man as I did, I don't think he had courage enough to end his own life. Besides, the idea of committing suicide in an automobile is preposterous. Why should he take his wife with him to kill himself?"

About Mrs. Warren he would say nothing, only acknowledge the fact that a divorce was obtained by his wife by mutual consent.

The "Four Hundred" Sees the Ceremony

FULL RITES OF THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH

BRIDE WEARS MOTHER'S VEIL

And Carries a Bouquet That is a Marvel of Beauty--Decorations are Magnificent.

Newport, April 14—At noon today Miss Cathleen Neilson was married to Reginald Vanderbilt at the villa, "Arleigh" according to the full rites of the Roman Catholic church.

The decorations were of unparalleled magnificence. The hall where the ceremony took place was transformed into a chapel whose altars and pillars were made of thousands of Easter lilies. All the four hundred of New York and Newport were present.

The tables upon which the breakfast was served were decorated with American beauty roses, thousands of them, except that of the bride, at which sixteen people were seated, which had a great mass of fragrant lilies of the valley.

The bride was attired in a gown of chiffon and point lace and wore a point lace veil, the same as that worn by her mother and her grandmother on their wedding days. She carried a bouquet which was a marvel, it being a cluster of orange blossoms and orchids, the latter being very scarce now and requiring extensive search of flower markets to select acceptable blossoms.

VANDERBILT ARRESTED.

Newport, R. I., April 14—Reginald Claypool Vanderbilt and his fiancée, Cathleen Neilson, had a strenuous ordeal yesterday, but because they enjoyed it, their bridal festivities were not to be marred by overwrought nerves.

Called from the side of his bride at Arleigh by an officer who had a warrant for his arrest, Reginald, with his brother, Alfred and the latter's chauffeur, stood before Justice Baker in the Courthouse and pleaded guilty to oversteering their automobile.

By far the most exciting event of the day for the prospective bride and bridegroom was the arrest of the latter with his best man. Miss Neilson herself was a party to the affair, because she was in the white locomobile when Constable Johnson of Middletown got evidence for the arrest. Then it was in her house that Mr. Vanderbilt was notified of his arrest.

Reginald, when first notified of his arrest, was badly frightened, thinking it would interfere with his bridal arrangements, and Miss Neilson, who had been told of the affair, watched his departure with much concern. Later they both laughed heartily over the incident, and declared their intention of taking another spin after the wedding.

Both Roads Festrained.

Delaware, O., April 14—Both the Big Four and the interurban are restrained from further work at crossing here until the case is again taken up in court tomorrow.

Manchester, N. H., April 14—W. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) met with an accident at the performance of his day.

His horse reared and fell on him, and he was thrown to a hotel. His injuries are not serious. His ankle is sprained, but he appeared in the arena last evening.

Too Soon, Killing
Two Men.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 14—By the premature explosion of a dynamite blast in Mt. Washington tunnel this morning two Austrian workmen were blown to pieces and two others were injured so badly that they will probably die. Mt. Washington is being tunneled for the Pittsburgh Street Railway company. The men had just started to work. All of the victims are Austrians known by working numbers only.

FIANCEE

Met at the Steamer Pier by Jackson, and the Couple Married Before Reaching Home

Canton, Ohio, April 14—Rev. C. G. Schaub yesterday afternoon tied a nuptial knot in a love chain which Cupid had fashioned in one of his most romantic moods. The groom was Anton Jackson of Wisconsin; the bride Miss Anna Aronson of Norway. Several years ago Jackson left the Scandinavian land to go to America after home and fortune. He succeeded and the only thing lacking to make home perfect for the young Norwegian was a wife. The girl of his choice was Miss Aronson, in far-off Norway, whom he sent for, and the first person to greet her in America was Jackson.

They proceeded westward for Jackson's home in Wisconsin, but the desire to be married became stronger as each mile slid behind the train which carried them. Finally Jackson and his bride to be got off the train at Canton and the ceremony was performed. After the ceremony they took their departure for Wisconsin, where they will make their home. They had been lovers before Anton came to this country.

KILLED

Friend Who Refused To Salute Him While Off Duty.

Brim, April 14—A naval officer, named Huessner, today murdered a friend named Hartmann, who was performing military service in an artillery regiment, because Hartmann would not salute him when off duty. The tragedy occurred in a street here. Huessner attacked his friend with his sword, piercing him through a lung. Death was almost instantaneous. Huessner was arrested and a detailed report of the cause has been asked for.

New York, April 14—Financiers here on Wall street are doing their best to give the country an object lesson as to the effect of the Northern Securities decision on railway stocks. The heavy shrinkage in value of railway stocks yesterday was the first pointer. Wall street men of prominence are sending telegrams today to members of the cabinet urging the administration to cease its attack on the merger for the present.

HEALTH BOARD

CREATES A SENSATION BY ITS STRICT ORDER

Every Person in the Town of Maysville, Ky., Must be Vaccinated or Suffer Quarantine.

Maysville, Ky., April 14—The health board of a small town today by a ruling created a sensation today by saying that on all of zone than unless they can have a certificate of vaccination for every member of the family or allow a physician who will call to vaccinate all who have not been vaccinated in the past five years, their homes will be quarantined and any one leaving the home will be subject to a fine or imprisonment. Twenty-four hours later the town is in a commotion.

FRANTIC

Efforts of Guilbert to Prove He's People's Friend.

He Doesn't Want Gillett to Get That Fat Job.

Guilbert However, Prohibits Auditor of Cleveland
From Going After Corporations-Subject of Tax Omission.

Columbus, Ohio, April 14—Amid the general indifference of Republicans as to the nominations to be made by the State Convention, the war which is on between the adherents of State Auditor Guilbert and those of Col. M. M. Gillett, of Newark, is rapidly assuming the appearance of being the whole show. For it is a war, not a scrap. At first Guilbert and his bosses and henchmen affected to, and perhaps did, despise his opponent, but it is a fact becoming evident that the Gillett movement is strong with the rank and file, and that many party leaders are openly or secretly aiding and abetting him. And Democrats, because they are going to elect the Auditor this year anyhow, are hugely enjoying the spectacle.

At present, the most amusing phase of the fight is Guilbert's frantic effort to convince the people that he is the man who keeps the corporations from devouring us bodily.

It is true that corporations, by the excise law, have been compelled to bear a small part of the burden which is rightfully theirs. But this was done by the General Assembly, and Democratic votes helped to do it. Guilbert was not the author of it, if Gov. Nash is to be believed. Nash skimmed the cream of that argument two years ago, claiming a second term on the ground that he did it. Between Guilbert and Nash the record seems to be with Nash. Nash has the copyright.

But Brer Guilbert has not held office for eight years in the State House at a salary estimated to aggregate $25,000 a year, on the strength of his ability to hold the corporations level. As a Republican, he could not have been nominated without the aid and consent of the trusts, Hanna, their master workman, and Foraker, their paid lobbyist and attorney. As a politician, the trusts allow Guilbert an ostensible, even an ostentatious freedom of speech.

It is when he gets down to going things that his masters make him show where he's at.

Following hard upon the heels of his self glorification as the man who wrings from the corporations and dumps into the State treasury the hard earned shekels, comes a little stunt of doing.

Wright, Democratic Auditor of Cuyahoga County, has been going after the Cleveland street railways. He thinks that their valuations are too tame.

The law is just as clear as to Mr. Wright's power to investigate these valuations as it is upon any subject of legislation. No doubt, when a full and fair investigation has been made, as to a tax omission, the result should stand, and the courts would so declare. In this case Mr. Guilbert has assumed to pass upon the facts of the case, which even Section 166, which he cites, does not permit him to do. His action does not illustrate his ability and knowledge as a lawyer, but it will serve his purpose—it will demonstrate to his masters that he is still with them.

WAR

In Balkans Seems Inevitable--Czar's Patience Exhausted.

Berlin, April 14—The Constantinople correspondent of the Tageblatt today wires his paper that the Russian ambassador to the Porte has informed the Sultan that the Czar's patience has been exhausted and that Russia intends to formulate a series of demands which Turkey must accept or take the consequences. A Turko-Russian conflict, the correspondent says, appears to be imminent. In other words war in the Balkans seems inevitable.

The general election in Germany for the reichstag have been set for June 16. The Social Democrats are preparing for a well-organized campaign, and a Berlin correspondent states that they have more money than any other party in the field. The Socialists have put their "red flag" away, and propose a more moderate campaign than some in the past. They have become opportunists. The emperor stands for their chief opposition, but outside the official and junker class he is not strong with the German people as against the Social Democrats. The suffrage laws place the latter at a great disadvantage. With a fair election law, making a just division of representation in the reichstag, the Social Democrats, with their immense popular vote, expect to be able to accomplish great things—more than by a revolution. The emperor's aggressive foreign policy is having an injurious effect on German trade, and this is felt among the people to a remarkable extent, and is creating an opposition that helps the Social Democrats.

New York city has held its first great mass meeting to advance a municipal lighting plant, and it was a remarkable demonstration. A petition will be sent to Albany "more than a mile in length" demanding the passage of the municipal ownership bill as regards public lighting. The Standard Oil company was denounced as being behind the present monopoly. Among the distinguished men appearing on the list of vice presidents in favor of municipal ownership were John G. Carlisle, Andrew Carnegie, Dr. Parkhurst, Oscar S. Straus and other leading citizens. The tide set in strongly for municipal ownership of public utilities now controlled by banded corporations.

THE MAYBRICK CASE.

Interest Revived In the Promised Release of the Prisoner.

MANY EFFORTS OF SYMPATHIZERS

Review of the Trial in Which Thousands of People Believe an Innocent Woman Was the Victim of a Gross Miscarriage of Justice.

(Special Correspondence.)
London, April 7.—The announcement that Mrs. Florence Maybrick will be released from Aylesbury prison upon the order of the British home secretary in July, 1904, has created scarcely less of a sensation than did the reports of her conviction and sentence to death nearly fifteen years ago, though the public is moved by vastly different emotions at this time. Now the feeling is one of well-nigh universal joy and satisfaction. Then it was one of widespread disapproval and protest against what, in the minds of many, seemed a miscarriage of justice.

Mrs. Maybrick was, as the world knows, convicted of the murder of her husband, James Maybrick, in Liverpool in 1889. She was an American and a most attractive young woman, facts which no doubt greatly enhanced the interest in the case. Before her marriage she was Florence Elizabeth Chandler, being a daughter of William G. Chandler, a wealthy and respected banker of Mobile, Ala., in which city she was born in 1862. Through both parents she was highly connected, and the names of her kinsmen shine brightly on the roll of America's soldiers, statesmen, jurists, preachers and authors. The first year of her life was passed in her southern home, a large white house with a magnificent garden of roses, surrounded by the rich and varied vegetation of the south. The father died in 1863, during the civil war, and the widow sought refuge with her mother in New York.

MRS. FLORENCE MAYBRICK.
[At the time of her marriage.]

The family subsequently came to Europe, and Florence was educated in Germany, meanwhile her mother having married the Baron de Roque. Later she returned to the United States, where in 1878 she met James Maybrick. He was then forty and she only sixteen, but a curious sort of liking almost to fascination sprang up between them. Her family strongly opposed the match owing, it is said, to the disparity of their ages and to his dissipating habits, and it was not till after eighteen months' delay that they gave a reluctant consent. The marriage took place in London in July, 1881, and Mr. and Mrs. Maybrick shortly afterward proceeded to America, where they lived for some years. They returned to England to permanently reside in Grassendale, near Liverpool. Mr. Maybrick carrying on his business in that city.

For a time their lives seemed to run along smoothly and even happily. Then there arose disagreements, apparently arising from the relations of a Mr. Brerley, though these relations were never shown to be of an improper character. The husband having alienated his wife's affections by his own infidelity, a violent quarrel took place between them in March, 1889, and Mr. Maybrick on that occasion beat her severely, blackening her eye. She then consulted a lawyer, deciding upon a separation. The two were finally reconciled through the efforts of the family physician, Mr. Maybrick's jealousy and distrust, however, continued, and he made a will April 25, 1889, in which this was manifest. He had been a chronic sufferer from dyspepsia, which was aggravated by his dissipated life. His symptoms were particularly unfavorable in 1888, at which time he was living amicably with his wife. Many of his symptoms were such as arise from habitual use of arsenic. Failing to get relief from his family physician in Liverpool, he went to London and consulted the physician of his brother, Michael Maybrick, who afterward became Mrs. Maybrick's most relentless and vindictive enemy. Mr. Maybrick habitually dosed himself with dangerous doses, doubling the quantity prescribed and leaving of his body a mass of medicine. After his death great numbers of medicine bottles were found in his house and office.

In much of the medicine arsenic was an ingredient. It had been shown that during his residence in America prior to this time he had been a confirmed arsenic eater and was well acquainted with its effects on his system. The various physicians who attended Mr. Maybrick had not suspected poison. The first accusation was made by Michael Maybrick.

The results of the trial are well known to the American public, a trial before a judge of unsound mind, who was shortly afterward retired because of his infirmity, dying a little later in a private insane asylum, and who had an aversion toward Americans amounting to a mania. His charges, which occupied two of the eight days consumed by the trial, was at the time characterized by Sir Charles Russell (later Lord Chief Justice Russell), the prisoner's counsel, as "passionately inciting the jury to find a verdict of guilty." * * * raging like a violent comet for the prosecution against her.

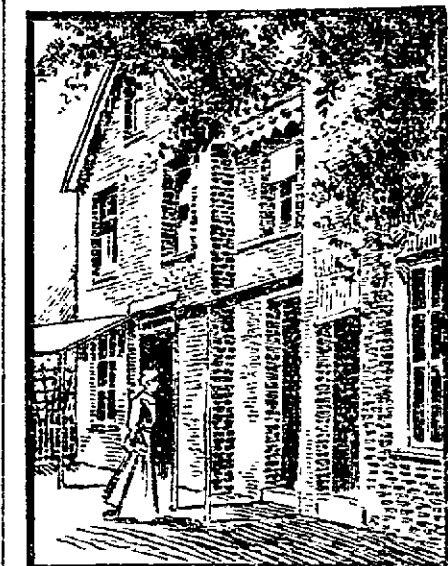

When the verdict and sentence were made known throughout the country, it is no exaggeration to say that the news was received with greater astonishment than that caused by any verdict of a jury during the century. It was not merely the ordinary public that was astonished, but the trained legal intellects present at the trial, including the counsel for the crown. It was felt that a great error had occurred, that a judicial murder was about to be committed, and numerous petitions against the infliction of the death penalty were immediately signed all over the United Kingdom. These petitions were not wholly the result of sympathy for the condemned, but rather of an almost universal feeling that the case was not clearly proved and that Mrs. Maybrick might, after all, be innocent of the crime of murder.

Before the time set for the execution the home secretary, Henry Matthews, who, except the crown, is alone vested with power to review the trial of capital crimes or exercise clemency, commuted the sentence to penal servitude for life, stating that the evidence "did not wholly exclude a reasonable doubt."

But the efforts in behalf of Mrs. Maybrick did not close with this result, which was felt to be unsatisfactory. With the commutation of the death sentence to life imprisonment, however, the British authorities rested, and the steady stream of petitions and appeals from all over this country and America from that time to this have failed to move them to further acts of clemency. On several occasions Mrs. Maybrick personally petitioned the late Queen Victoria, asking for one of two things—either a pardon or a public investigation into the evidence. Under the English law a condemned prisoner has no right to a reinvestigation of the evidence—in other words, has no right of appeal—and if unjustly condemned can only hope for repatriation through a pardon from the crown upon the recommendation of the home secretary. This all the home secretaries from Mr. Matthews down to the present refused to do, and Queen Victoria declined to take the initiative in the matter, an attitude which has been assumed by King Edward.

Under what many people think to be a mistaken notion of "maintaining the majesty of the law" the British authorities have kept Mrs. Maybrick in prison since 1889 regardless of the number and character of the appeals for her release. The petitions from the United States have been particularly numerous and insistent, hundreds of the signers being people of high official and social standing—presidents, cabinet officers, supreme court justices and members of congress, to whom it would seem the British authorities would not be adverse to making reasonable concessions.

But the promised release of Mrs. Maybrick does not come as a result of these petitions, nor indeed is it in any respect an act of clemency. Mrs. Maybrick is not to be pardoned, but simply released in accordance with the usual British custom. The sentence of life imprisonment in England virtually means twenty years, but as good behavior in prison still further reduces the period of incarceration and as Mrs. Maybrick has been known as a "good conduct prisoner" her term at the time set for her release will have been reduced to about fifteen years.

Mrs. Maybrick's mother, the Baroness de Roque, who has never depicted the innocence of her daughter nor ceased to work and pray for her freedom, lives in the outskirts of Rouen, in a tiny house of a few rooms of dilapidated dimensions, for which she pays about $19 a month, her cover ample for time having been dissipated in efforts to secure her daughter's restoration to liberty. It is understood that home duty upon her release Mrs. Maybrick and the harness will go to the United States, where they have large financial interests now in litigation which require their presence.

BOWSER'S HARD CIDER

He Samples a Gallon Sent by a Friend and the Result Is Disastrous

(Copyright, 1903, by C. B. Lewis.)

THE Bowsters had just finished dinner the other evening when the expressman drove up with a two gallon jug which was tagged in Mr. Bowser's name. The cork being removed and the contents sampled, he snatched his lips and exclaimed:

"This must be hard cider. I had a letter way along last fall from an old friend in Chemung county, and I remember that he hinted about sending me down a jug of something good later on. By John, but the taste of it brings back the days when I used to walk three miles to the cider mill! The old days are gone never to return, but here is the cider, and I'd rather have it than so much champagne."

"I have heard that hard cider was almost as bad as whisky to intoxication," observed Mrs. Bowser as Mr. Bowser got away with his second glass within five minutes.

"That's all nonsense. There isn't enough alcohol in a barrel of it to affect the brains of a canary bird. Um! But that is old times! I feel almost as if I were climbing apple trees again. If we only had a pumpkin pie now, I'd feel myself an Uncle Sam."

Mr. Bowser read his paper for ten minutes and then descended to the dining room to see if the gas was turned out. He decided to kill two birds with one stone, and a third glass of hard cider followed the second and first. A quarter of an hour later the jug was tipped up for the fourth time within forty minutes, and soon after he came upstairs he began to grin and chuckle.

"Anything funny happen today?" queried Mrs. Bowser after a sharp look at him.

"Yes. A fat man was running to catch a car, and—ha, ha, ha!—it was mean to laugh at him, but when he fell over a dog and rolled over and over how could any one help but—ha, ha, ha!"

"I wouldn't drink any more of that cider this evening if I were you."

"What's the matter with the cider? Ha, ha, ha! Say, now, look at our old cat. Isn't she a perfect picture of domestic contentment? With a dear little wife at my elbow and a blarney old cat on the hearth rug I ought to be a happy husband, don't you think? I think the basement door may be open, and I'll go down and see."

"No, I'll go. Yes, she's a nice old cat, and you are a dear little wife, and if you'd seen that fat man fall over that dog you'd have gone into a ha, ha, ha!"

The basement door was not open. That cider jug was, however, and Mr. Bowser took advantage of the occasion. As he was all alone and in no hurry he drank a couple of glasses, and the taste carried him back to the days when harvest apples gave him the colic. He smiled to himself while drinking, but when he returned to the sitting room Mrs. Bowser noticed that his hilarity was on the wane. Five minutes later he turned to her and said:

"Do you remember that little red schoolhouse beyond the bridge where we went to school together?"

"Of course," she replied.

"Did I tell you that it had been torn down?"

"No."

"Yes, torn down and a cow stable put up there. How could they do it? That dear old schoolhouse was surrounded with sentiment. There was where I first met you. There was where I first loved you. There was where I first—"

He could not go on. He pulled out his handkerchief and held it to his eyes, and Mrs. Bowser realized that the hard cider from old Chemung had got in his work in good shape.

"Didn't you better lie down on the lounge for an hour or so?" she suggested as his tears continued to fall.

No, sir, he replied, with considerable force. "Mrs. Bowser, what kind of a woman are you? Here they go and tear down our dear little red schoolhouse, one of the most sacred spots on earth, and you haven't a word to say. Even when I tell you that cows are chewing their ends on the spot where I first told you of my love you do not shed a tear!"

"I can't weep over all the sad things I hear. In this case I suppose the building was about ready to fall anyhow. Wouldn't you lie down?"

"And there was the old oak under which we used to gather acorns," continued Mr. Bowser as his face grew redder and more tears came. "They have gone and cut down that dear old tree and put up a windmill in its place. How dare they do it? It was under the um-um-umbrageous branches of that old oak that I first told you of my love; that you told me my love was returned. I wanted to buy that tree and preserve it under a glass case, but they have cut it down and sold it for stove wood."

"It's too bad," said Mrs. Bowser. "But don't you think you'd better go to bed now? I don't think you are feeling very well."

"No; I'm not feeling well. Do you know, I feel that I won't live to bother any one much longer? I shall be found dead in my bed some morning, and that will be the end of it. I did want to see that dear old hill again, the spot where I first told you of my love as we were sliding down hill, but it cannot be. Do you know, they have torn that hill down and made a woodyard on the spot? How could they do it—how could they?"

"Well, we are sorry, but we can't help it, and I think you'd better go to bed now. You know you were up late last night."

"Go to bed? Never! How can I go to bed when I know that the dear old horse pond in which I first told you of my love has been cut up and sold by the piece? Such things sink deep into my heart, and if you were a true hearted woman you would be weeping instead of sitting there like a log of wood. You wouldn't care if all the dear old things of your childhood were traded off for turpentine."

"Where are you going?" asked Mrs. Bowser as he started down the hall.

"Where am I going? I'm going to find some one who can sympathize with me and understand my feelings. You can sit there, with your heart of stone, and the blarney old cat can sit there with you, but I—"

He put on his hat and overcoat and went out. The cold night wind dried his tears, but at the same time it set that hard cider working up in the top of his head, and Mr. Bowser had only reached the corner when he had to "reach out for the fence." What happened to him in the next quarter of an hour was told by the policeman who brought him home.

"Madam," he said as Mrs. Bowser answered his ring at the bell, "is this your husband?"

"Yes," she replied as Mr. Bowser assisted into the hall.

"His name is Bowser, isn't it?"

"Yes."

"Yes; name's Bowser," mused the culprit as he leaned up against the wall and stared around.

"Has anything happened to unbalance his mind?" continued the officer. "I found him up on the corner hanging to the fence and crying and muttering to himself about a little red tree and an old oak schoolhouse. He isn't crazy, is he?"

"Not at all. He simply received a jug of hard cider from Chemung county tonight."

"Ah! And he—he—"

"He sampled the cider."

"Yes; sampled the cider," added Mr. Bowser.

"I see, madam; I understand. He sampled the cider, and the cider sampled him. Sorry to have disturbed you. Better get him to bed soon."

"Alas! Mrs. Bowser," began Mr. Bowser as the door was closed on the officer, "do you know what they have went and done and cut down that dear old huckleberry swamp in which I first told you—"

"Up you go," she interrupted as she pointed at the stairs.

Ten minutes later he was in bed and unconscious to the world.

JERSEY ELOPEMENT.

Two Well Known Licking County Young People
Decided to Wed in Spite of Opposition and They are Now Married.

Jersey, Ohio, April 14—This place is all agog over an elopement of two highly respected young people of this place. For the past two years Lester Alberry, a son of Mr. Seth Alberry, one of the best known and most prominent men in this part of the county, has been keeping company with Miss Leah Harrison, daughter of Mrs. Mollie Harrison, who is a most charming and agreeable young lady, and has hosts of friends here. The young people finally became engaged and every thing was running along smoothly until within the past three or four months, when a coolness suddenly sprang up on the part of the young lady's mother and relatives, and they opposed themselves to the match. Mr. Alberry and Miss Harrison, however, were determined that they would get married, notwithstanding the opposition, and laid their plans accordingly. On Sunday morning Miss Harrison left home without saying where she was going, and meeting her lover by appointment, they went to Blendon Corners where they were promptly married by the Rev. F. M. Pitkin.

SAVED FROM PLOT

Of Chinese Rebels Was Viceroy—American Naval Officer's Quick Action Upset Plans Laid—
Drake Acted in an Emergency.

Washington, April 14—Quick action and common sense treatment of a critical situation by an American naval officer in China recently saved the foreign residents in the province of Kwong Tung along the east bank of the Canton river from falling victims to a plot which while directed primarily against the Manchurian dynasty inevitably would have culminated in an attack on the foreign population.

While this attack was averted by the precautionary measures taken by Commander F. J. Drake, commanding the United States ship Monterey, with the assistance of the English gunboats Sandpiper and Britomart, the French gunboat Avalanche and the German tug Shamoon, the coalition known to have fomented the trouble extends to several provinces and official advices received both at the state and navy departments show that reactionary measures on a scale far larger than is admitted either by foreign representatives or the Chinese government have been planned by the rebels.

Hearing that a force of rebels with Hung Chun Fuk, a native of Wai Chow, had planned an attack on the viceroy and Chinese officials of Canton during the celebration of the Chinese new year, during the night of January 28-29, Commander Drake prepared to defend the foreign residents. An armed force of 3000 men had entered Canton surreptitiously several days before he learned the news and were hiding with sympathizers.

Instead of visiting the holy temple in the inner city at midnight to offer incense, the viceroy and officials, contrary to long custom, remained in their respective yamens securely guarded. Around the viceroy's yamen alone were assembled 4000 armed troops. By 7 o'clock the gates to the inner city were closed and the streets cleared.

Many arrests were made that night in which some comrades were implicated and large amounts of stores were seized in houses and shops in Fong Chun and Pates, opposite Shameen. Many other indications of the intended attack were found and the officials agreed that the rebels abandoned their plot only because of Commander Drake's discovery and his prompt action.

RESIGNS

Position as Superintendent of Public Schools at Pataskala to Go West.

Pataskala, Ohio, April 14—Superintendent of schools Walter E. Painter, brother of Wm. E. Painter of Newark, has just announced that he will resign his position here at the close of the school year to accept a position as teacher of English branches in a private Baptist school at Minneapolis, Minn. Painter will also lead the First Baptist church choir at Minneapolis the coming year.

The announcement is a surprise and a matter of regret here. It was a foregone conclusion that Mr. Painter would have been re-elected. Who his successor will be is not known.

PANICKY

MARKET AS REFLEX OF THE MER-GER DECISION.

Attempts to Stem the Tide of No
Avail—Stocks of All Kinds
Were Offered.

New York, April 14—Heavy selling that carried the total of transactions to within the neighborhood of 1,500,000 shares, and declines that ranged from 2 to 10 points throughout the whole list, occurred in the stock market yesterday. They were explained as a reflection by the St. Paul decision in the Northern Securities case rendered last Thursday. The street lost through shrinkage close to $70,000,000. In the decline prices reached, as early as 1 o'clock a lower level on the average than for two years past. It was a perfect wave of heavy liquidation that swept over the market. Liquidation of long stocks was in progress all around the room during the first two hours, causing sharp declines in all issues. There was little support in the market save that which came from covering of shorts, and this demand was quickly filled.

Supporting orders were put in the market at the opening, apparently for the purpose of creating confidence in the minds of outside speculative interests, that watched the opening with an idea that the first prices would indicate the way in which the leading financial interests regarded the Northern Securities decision. Two of the leading Waldorf party, Jakey Field and W. B. Oliver, were on the floor at the opening and bid up many stocks. Certain room traders followed them, and there was some covering of shorts. This gave the market a firm tone at the opening, and during the quarter of an hour gains were being made in many stocks in the easy trading.

Then came the slump. Stocks poured in in big blocks, and it soon became evident that liquidation on a large scale had developed. Bullish traders joined in the selling movement and threw over the stocks bought by them at and just after the opening. The selling was so heavy that prices gave way in all directions before the market became steady.

A semi-panic came about noon on the circulation of a report that the administration at Washington, would follow up the victory in the Northern Securities fight by a wholesale and relentless crusade against corporations in general.

The report was afterward stated to be entirely without confirmation and on its face seemingly unreasonable, yet in the excited state of feeling in the street, it was sufficient to assist largely in the demoralization in prices.

As quotations fell away the volume of business swelled, and the active stocks came out in 1,000, 5,000 and 10,000 share blocks.

It was no unusual thing to see lots of 5,000 and 10,000 shares of New York Central, Pennsylvania, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific and Missouri Pacific offered.

A NOVEL INTRODUCTION.

Dr. Howard C. Make a Special Price. The Dr. Howard company have entered into an arrangement with Frank D. Hall's drug store, by which a special introduction offer will be made of 25 cents on the 50 cent size of their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia.

So remarkably successful has Dr. Howard's specific been in curing constipation, dyspepsia and all forms of liver trouble that Frank D. Hall will return the price paid in every case where it does not give relief.

The old-fashioned idea of dosing with mineral waters, cathartic pills or harsh purgatives will soon be a thing of the past. The best physicians are prescribing Dr. Howard's specific, both because it is so remarkable a medicine and on account of the small dose that is needed.

Frank D. Hall has been able to secure only a limited supply, so everyone who wishes to be cured of dyspepsia or constipation should call upon him at once or send him 25 cents by mail, and get 60 doses of the best medicine made, on this special half price introductory offer, with his personal guarantee to refund the money if the specific does not cure.

Army Captain and Wife Will Leave for Cleveland Sunday—Marching Orders Received

Captain Clifford of the Salvation Army, having received his marching orders will take his farewell from Newark next Sunday and will report in Cleveland for duty in that city. It is not yet known who will take charge of the work in Newark.

Capt. Clifford and his estimable young wife came to Newark five months ago and at once won their way to the hearts of Newark people. They have been very successful in carrying on the work here and have been instrumental in helping many a person distressed in mind and body. They have given Newark people a different view of Salvation Army work and have by their earnest methods, constant devotion to duty and self denial done much towards the alleviation of human misery and the upbuilding of the cause of Christianity.

Captain Clifford is an educated Englishman. He is an ordained Methodist minister and is thoroughly practical in his work.

Mrs. Clifford is the daughter of a prominent English manufacturer and she gave up a luxurious home and a life of ease to further the cause of Christianity. Many friends will be sorry to have Captain and Mrs. Clifford leave Newark next Sunday.

DEATH OF ONE OF GRANVILLE TWP'S BEST CITIZENS

Denison Dandy Minstrel's Show—Foot Ball Team Preparing for Practice—All the News

Granville, O., April 14—Mr. Simon Hankinson, one of the best known and most highly respected residents of Licking county, died at his home in the Welsh Hills on Sunday morning, about 2:30 o'clock, after an illness of some time with spinal trouble, aged 46 years. The deceased had sustained several bad falls during the past winter, and it is supposed that he injured his spine. Mr. Hankinson was one of a family of eleven children, nine boys and two girls, and he is the first one of the boys to pass away, one sister having preceded him to the grave. When quite young he was married, and was the father of nine children, of whom five have died. The family have the sympathy of all their friends in their great bereavement. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, the services being conducted by the Rev. Bunyan Spencer, and the interment was made in the Welsh Hills cemetery.

It should be kept in mind that the annual minstrel show of the Denison Dandy Dardies will be given at the Opera House on Friday evening of this week. The musical organizations of the university will all take part, the orchestra giving several accompaniments and the Glee and Mandolin clubs rendering a number of selections. The specialties will all be new and attractive. One of the best of buck and wing dancers has been secured for the evening. The old Virginia camp meeting will be true to life and will be led by a past master of the profession. The Denison University Quartet will also have a part on the program. The olio will contain all the latest and best songs, jokes, gags, etc., and the costumes will be new and gorgeous. Don't forget the date, Friday evening of this week.

The Philomathean Society will give a special program in Recital Hall on Friday evening, May 6. Invitations will be sent out for the affair.

On Saturday evening, April 25, the Franklin Extra will be given in Recital Hall.

It is quite probable that a track and field meet will be held in Granville on Field day. Manager Fox of the track team is now negotiating with Wooster for a meet.

A call has been issued by Capt. Loughbridge for all candidates for next year's foot ball team to come out to spring practice. Suits have been given out and the practice will be pressed through this term. Denison has the timber to have one of the best teams in the State.

Quite a number of the ladies of the Shepardson College went down to Newark on Monday night and attended "In a Persian Garden" at Taylor hall.

Charles B. Rhodes and son Joseph, left for Bainbridge, Ohio, this morning on business trip.

Mr. Arthur Judson of the Conservatory of Music, was visited this week by his brother of Dayton.

Miss Anna Wilson of Logan, Ohio, visited friends in the village for a short time on Saturday.

CURIOSITY

SHOWN BY WOMAN DISCLOSES A MURDER

New York Police Convinced the Ital- ian Was Slain as Result of a Vendetta or Plot.

New York, April 14—A woman's curi- osity led to the discovery of a ghastly murder this morning. Mrs. Frazer Connors, of 169 Avenue D, left her home this morning for the grocery. Turning the corner of Eleventh street, a manufacturing district she saw a barrel standing outside the curb in front of the saw mill of the New York Mallet and Handle works. There was a coat over the top of the barrel. Thinking some Long Island farmer had accidentally dropped a barrel of produce, she decided to investigate. She lifted the coat and then screamed in fright when she saw the hand and foot of a man protruding. A watch- man and a policeman were soon on the scene. They found that the man, an Italian of the better class was mur- dered, the body doubled up and shoved into the barrel. It had probably been carted from some of the Italian quar- ters of the city to the spot at which it was found. The police are con- vinced that the man was slain as the result of a vendetta or Mafia plot. They expect a difficult task in tracing the murderers.

The motive for the act was char- grin at her diminishing dramatic power which had compelled her to forsake the theatre for music hall work. She was 32 years old.

LIGHTNING

DESTROYS TWO LICKING COUNTY BARN

In One 38 Sheep Burned, in the Other Valuable Bull Lost Its Life—The Owners Absent.

The Saturday evening storm preced- ing Easter Sunday that passed over a portion of Licking county, was quite severe in its nature and was attended with disastrous results in some local- ities. The barn on the Wyeth place in Liberty township, which farm is now occupied by T. F. Sutton, was struck by lightning and a valuable short horn bull was killed and also a fine yearling Wilkes colt. Mr. Sutton, who was in Newark attending court, knew nothing of the matter until some- time after its occurrence.

During the same storm the barn of Peter Dumbaugh, a well known far- mer living west of Highwater, was struck by lightning and burned to the ground with most of its contents. Thirty-eight sheep were consumed in the burning barn. Mr. Dumbaugh also happened to be in Newark at the time, but Mrs. Dumbaugh, who was at the home, managed to get the horses out of the burning stable without serious injury.

SENSATION

CREATED BY THE ADDRESS OF PRESIDENT PARRY

He Declares That Labor Unions are un-American—An Extract of Par- ry's Address.

New Orleans, April 14—The con- vention of the national association of manufacturers which opened in this city today promises to be one of the most important in the history of the association. D. M. Parry of Indian- apolis, president of the association de- livered his annual address which cre- ated a sensation. He declared that labor unions are un-American institu- tions. "Organized labor knows but one law," he said, "that of physical force, the laws of Huns and vandals, the laws of savages. Organized labor does not place its reliance on reason and justice. It is in all essentials mob power, knowing no master, but its own will. It becomes a menace to con- ditions of free government. It is despot- ism in the midst of liberty loving peo- ple. Its history is stained with blood and ruin. Wrongs committed by it cry unto heaven. It extends its tactics of coercion and intimidation every- where, dictating to the press and po- liticians and strangling independent thought of American manhood. It holds a bludgeon over the head of every employer."

COL. COIT

DECLARES REGIMENT WILL NOT BE REORGANIZED

And That He Will Not Resign—Warm Epistle Written by Commander of the Fourth.

Columbus, O., April 14—In a characteristic letter, Col. A. B. Coit, commanding the Fourth regiment, Ohio National Guard, denounces as false, all talk of a reorganization of his command, or of his resignation from the service.

Incidentally, while doing this, the colonel pays his respects to certain officers of the Guard, speaking of the "barking of curs" and the "false statements of nobodies with a little title."

The epistle of the colonel is as follows: "The talk of the reorganization of the Fourth infantry and the resignation of Colonel Coit is false, and I must respectfully ask that you do not lend your columns to the giving out of such absurd statements. Please remember that I am colonel of the Fourth and the governor is the commander-in-chief, and no one else can in any way issue any orders concerning the command."

"The barking of curs and false statements of nobodies, even with a little title, cannot in any way affect the Fourth regiment. Yours respectfully, 'A. B. COIT.'"

Military men express much surprise at the tone of the letter and the language used at its close.

One and all of them, however, declined to discuss the letter, saying that it almost certainly means either a court martial or a court of inquiry for the writer.

One of them said: "Colonel Coit is very indiscreet. I am surprised that he should write such a letter for publication. The matter will certainly be brought to the attention of the governor."

"The colonel is not noted for his gentle temper, and in inditing the missive he no doubt wrote as he thought."

The affairs of the Fourth remain in chaos. Lieutenant Colonel Barger of the regiment was in conference with Governor Nash yesterday, but neither of them would discuss the subject of the reorganization of the command.

This matter is in the hands of the governor, and when he gets the provisional regiment off for St. Louis, he will, no doubt, turn his attention to the reports of Colonel Stanbury.

Quite a number of base ball enthusiasts will go to Cincinnati next Sunday to see Joe Kelley's rejuvenated Reds clash on the diamond with Fred Clarke's Champion Pirates. A special train will be run on the B. & O. Sunday morning from Newark for this game, the round trip fare being $2.25.

DISCLOSURES

So Numerous and Startling That It's Only a Question of How Many Will Confess.

St. Louis, April 11—Disclosures in the grand jury investigation of hoodlums in the late legislature are so numerous and startling that it is now only a question of how many will confess in an effort to escape the penitentiary. Last evening information reached Circuit Attorney Folk that State Senator John P. Collins of St. Louis, was seen to have in his possession seven $1,000 bills a few days after the adjournment of the legislature. Five of them were deposited in the Lafayette National Bank, two of them being retained in Collins' possession. The bank officials will be subpoenaed and their testimony, it is thought, may lead to the detection of those with whom Collins is alleged to have dealt.

THE LONG SHOULDER.

Cap and Sleeve Effects Which Accentuate This.

One of the leading fashion notes of the season is the return of the pelerine, or cape. Lovers of the old minsters are chiefly responsible for this revival of the long shoulder and the cape collar. The leading dressmakers today can adapt any fashion to the wearer; consequently there is no suggestion of dowdiness about the pelerine of the hour.

From an economical point of view this is an excellent way of renovating a last year's coat or blouse and of using sale remnants of lace or embroidery.

Irish crochet lace is being made in ecru and cream, as the all white was found very trying. For mixing with cloth linen—and, indeed, velvets and satin—there is nothing smarter than this heavy make of lace.

The picture frock can adapt itself to many occasions by the addition of fichu or long or short coat of lace.

The loose little coats known last year as "Frocks and Frills" are to be revived with more elaborate effects. The difference is felt mainly in the sleeves, which are draped and caught up in becoming manner. Capes which in no way resemble the unbecoming affairs which were formerly known by that name are made with shawl effects and long, pendent ends.

In the picture is shown a smart little coffee coat of ecru lace over pink chiffon. A scarf of black tulle is threaded through the lace and falls in uneven ends.

FASHION NOTES.

The New Figure—The Sack Coat Ever Popular.

For some long time we have fitted our hips even more closely and carefully than our waists, and the wasplike figure is no longer modish. Straight front corsets have made a small waist impossible, and the fashionable figure is more nearly a natural one than it has been for many years.

The straight front corset has not only altered the shape of the gown, but it has seriously affected the style and trimming of underwear. For instance, the sack shape chemise is most desirable, as it gives a straight front, but the yoke and trimming must be arranged quite deep, or there is a big expanse of untrimmed caubric between the very low corset and the small old fashioned square or yoke.

The sack coatee will be the model for spring wear, and, plaids, tucks or folds will be seen in all coats, whether long or short. The tailor delights in flat plaids, and this season he has full scope for elaboration in this form. All folds must be sharp and clear and thoroughly pressed, and pressing in tailor fashion is quite an art, as the folds are practically indestructible.

There is a possibility that according to bladed skirts will return and a certainty that tucks will stay in style. On the new cloth gown there is a trimming running up and down between the tucks, and often this trimming is handkerchief and elaborate, though very narrow.

The picture shows a child's gown of brown granite cloth.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR THE SUMMER SEASON.

Costumes of Thin Cloth—Chiffon and Lace Bone.

The new floral hats and toques will certainly be fashionable during the entire season, as there is no possibility of confusing the exquisite copies of roses and orchids with the cheaper imitations.

VEILING SUIT.

tions. Red and pink fuchsias and begonias with waxy foliage are not likely to be copied in cotton, while the delicate roses in soft coloring, with dark green leaves, are quite unlike the common type of flower.

Stunning boas of chiffon are combined particularly in the brown shades with ecru lace or Russian galloon.

The woman who dresses smartly will enrich her wardrobe by a coatee and skirt of thin cloth with medallions of black guipure laid on black panne and with a deep belt of panne with little tabs of the cloth and panne intermixed and finished with steel buttons.

Suede gloves, both white and black, are taking the place of the glove kids in women's favor. They make the hand look smaller and are far easier to clean.

The cut shows a costume of blue veiling over deep red silk. The hat is of yellow straw and trimmed with a blue and white scarf.

SECRETS

At the Price of Suffering.

Woman on her way to semi-invalidism caused by pregnancy suffers much pain. Ignorance prompts her to suffer alone in silence and remain in the dark as to the true cause—motherhood.

Mother's Friend takes the doctor's place and she has no cause for an interview. She is her own doctor, and her modesty is protected. Daily application to the breast and abdomen throughout pregnancy will enable her to undergo the period of gestation in a cheerful mood and rest undisturbed.

It is a liniment for external use only. It would indeed be shameful if the sacrifice of motherhood were necessary to the successful issue of her children. All women about to become mothers need not look to a druggist and for $2.00 secure the prize childbearing remedy. Her baby's health is the result of using Mother's Friend. SUNDAY SCHOOL

Secretary Shinn Wants Reports from All Sunday Schools in Licking County—Cash Needed.

The blanks for the reports of the Sunday Schools of the County have been mailed to the township secretaries and doubtless have reached the Superintendents by this time.

It will be noticed that we do not ask for statistics this year, but simply a list of facts, such as the names and addresses of officers and the general condition of each school. We have changed the plan arranged by the state and are sending to each school a circular letter to which we call special attention.

Let every school lift its share of the burden and the rate of progress, of which we spoke in last week's paper, will have been maintained.

As we said in our circular letter the county officers are very anxious that we come up to the County Convention at Newark with a perfectly clean financial record. To do this we MUST receive, between now and the County Convention, three hundred dollars ($300.00). And this can only be done by each of the 115 schools in the county doing its share.

At the County Convention last year it was asked that each school contribute three cents per member enrolled. This divides the burdens equally among the schools and if each will come up to its share will meet our expenses.

Yours in His Service,
